

Japanese/Kokugo Resources

<https://nihongo-e-na.com/eng/>

Portal for Japanese Learning. There is lots of information, including reading, listening, writing, apps, and more.

<https://jisho.org/>

This is a very good translation engine (more accurate than Google translate).

Kaku Navi \(kanji stroke look up website\) https://kaku-navi.com/

This website is useful for students who want to look up the stroke order of a particular kanji. (Students have to know how to type in hiragana using a Japanese keyboard option to do this, so it's a better resource for upper grades.)

NHK for School \(tv program videos\) https://www.nhk.or.jp/school/program/

This is a link to videos that students can watch as a means to immerse themselves in the language. They all come from NHK TV programs made for kids.

PIBO: Japanese Picture Book Reader
