Tell me about Roosevelt's staffing.	In addition to Roosevelt's classroom teachers, we have a media specialist and other professional support staff; including a school psychologist, school social worker, Elementary Support Teacher (1.5), Title I interventionist (.5), speech and language therapists, resource classroom teacher, teacher consultant, outreach occupational and physical therapists, and homebound or hospitalized services. Custodians, secretaries, paraprofessionals, and lunchroom personnel assist in ensuring the building operates in an organized manner, keeping the building clean, serving nutritious food, and helping teachers and students.
Tell me about your ASD Preschool and ASD Kindergarten program.	Children who attend the Livonia Preschool and Kindergarten Program for Students with Autism Spectrum Disorders receive comprehensive services from a multidisciplinary staff who integrate new therapy and treatment approaches. A specialized curriculum includes various forms of applied behavior analysis, social relational models, picture exchange, sign language and other research-based intervention strategies. The program has a strong sensory component. An occupational therapist certified in sensory integration provides on-going support to staff and parents. Each child's sensory diet is addressed in all environments by trained staff. Positive behavioral supports are used to manage behavior issues. The TEACCH (Treatment and Education of Autistic and related Communication-handicapped Children) system is one method used by staff. It is found to be extremely effective for managing behavior by using predictable routines and visual systems. Work areas are clearly defined and organized with a clear beginning and ending. With strong emphasis on communication, program staff regularly participate in seminars, receiving current information in the use of various communication devices. The philosophy of the program is to assume that any student can learn to speak. Therefore, the ultimate goal of the intense individual therapy is speech for each child. Children attend a half-day session, 3 1/2 hours a day, Monday through Thursday and alternate Fridays. Children in ASD Kindergarten attend Monday-Friday from 8:30 a.m.-3:35 p.m. Please contact Katrina Moxham at kmoxham@livoniapublicschools.org if you have additional questions about our ASD preschool.
